FATE OF EUROPE IN BRITAIN'S HANDS

CZECHS TO DEFEND LAND TO LAST MAN

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Czechoslovakia said today that they intended to hold and defend every inch of their territory, including Sudeten German areas, even if it meant fighting to the last man.

That is the official viewpoint. It is the viewpoint of the government and of the army high command. It is the loudly expressed opinion of the man in the street, who is becoming more and more restive under constant strain. And, today at least, it is the answer to the Czechoslovak nation to threats and plans of the big powers.

A foreign office spokesman said to the United Press today:

"There is only one answer to the latest developments. That is we will defend every inch of territory that belongs to Czechoslovakia. We will fight if necessary. There will be no question of giving up part of our nation."

Anglo-French Help Sure?

It is understood authoritatively that the government believes that it will not be deserted by France and Great Britain, in an extremity, because Germany's push eastward would conflict, even if indirectly, with British empire interests.

The government also counts 100 percent on its alliance with France, believing that it will bring France into the fight in event of war.

Also, the government appears to have received a solemn pledge that Russia, in accordance with its obligations under the Czechoslovak-Russian alliance, will rush airplanes, soldiers and artillery to Czechoslovakia at the moment any aggression was committed.

It has been reported that Roumania is ready to permit Russian planes and armies to cross the approximately 150 miles of Roumanian soil between Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Ernst Kuntz, Sudeten leader detailed to remain here, said today in a proclamation to Sudeten Germans:

"Under political pressure by short sighted elements which still do not realize before what grave decisions Europe stands today, the government has considered it wise to terminate activities of the Sudeten party. Do not let yourselves be misled. It is not important today whether there is a party organization in Czechoslovakia.

For us, the only decisive thing is the further fate of our Sudeten Germans in the homeland."

Views Discussed

Kuntz and Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta gave me, in interviews, the divergent views of the Sudeten party and the government.

Krofta, while denouncing the idea of a plebiscite, suggested some sort of regional pact to guarantee Czechoslovakia's integrity. He hinted strongly that such a pact would make it unnecessary for Czechoslovakia to continue its alliance with Russia, an alliance which Hitler hates.

Kuntz criticised the government for banning the Sudeten party and said:

"I don't intend to give up my parliamentary mandate on the decision of the government. They will have to use force to prevent me from fulfilling my duties as a deputy."

Perhaps the most direct public denunciation of dismemberment was made by Rudolph Bechyne, deputy premier, in a newspaper article.

"No Czech government would ever consent to a plebiscite," he said, "and if ever such a government were found it would be swept away within an hour by the nation, which chooses death rather than dismemberment of the country."

A plebiscite would solve nothing. At least 1,000,000 Germans would flee from the plebiscite area to the interior, thus creating a new German minority which would be used as a pretext for a new Sudeten question, until the Republic was destroyed.

"In this country there will be no plebiscite and no international police."

All Not Nazis

This idea that not all Sudetens were pro-Nazi is not a new one. The Sudeten party won 44 seats in the 1935 election, the last. The Communists, of whom many are Sudetens, won 30. The left wing German Social Democratic party, anti-Nazi, won 11. Other German parties, though they have cooperated with the Sudetens in seeking concessions, are not necessarily for union with Germany.

The government reported that the Sudeten country was almost completely quiet this morning.

RUNCIMAN AND RULER CONFER

French Premier, Foreign Chief Called To Come To London At Once

HITLER'S DEMAND DRASTIC
Prime Minister Ready To Agree To Der Fuehrer's Sudeten 'Ultimatum'

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of France have been invited to come to London "as soon as possible," authoritative sources disclosed today.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Czechoslovakia would fight rather than accept a plebiscite, Viscount Runciman was understood to have told the cabinet today.

The British negotiator in Czechoslovakia was present at a morning session of the cabinet at which the ministers strove earnestly to draft a compromise plan which Adolf Hitler might accept in a second conference with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Runciman's information, it was feared, might make the cabinet's efforts futile because the word was that Hitler has insisted on nothing less than a plebiscite, uncompromisingly phrasing his demand so that it would be an ultimatum, except that he set no exact time limit.

Runciman Sees King
The cabinet met at 11 a. m. and then again at 3 p. m. after a luncheon adjournment. Runciman conferred with the King in the afternoon.

It was said in reliable quarters that Chamberlain reported to the cabinet that he believed the minimum Hitler would accept as a Sudeten solution was a plebiscite, and that he was able to report that Hitler had not fixed any time limit for a reply to his demands.

It was learned that a cabinet majority, which included the more influential members, definitely opposed plunging Great Britain into a war over Czechoslovakia if there was any means of avoiding it.

But even these members were gravely anxious lest some precipitate move might put Czechoslovakia at war with Germany, that France might follow and that Britain might be forced in.

Urgent Speed Necessary
The cabinet's main thought was that whatever was done must be done with the most urgent speed. Not only had Adolf Hitler pressed Chamberlain for early—and absolutely compliant—agreement to his demands but there was danger, increasing every hour, of an incident which would make war certain.

Responsible non-British diplomatic sources even spoke of the possibility of a deliberate incident in Czechoslovakia calculated to force Germany to move.

It was understood that Prime Minister Chamberlain, on his return, personally favored accepting Hitler's terms as the alternative to war. This knowledge caused astonishment among cabinet members. But as the night passed and the implication of a rejection of the demands became plainer, some cabinet ministers wavered—and came round to his view.

But the cabinet was expected to confirm its stand that if Germany made war on Czechoslovakia and France went to Czechoslovakia's aid, Britain would support France.

Compromise Possible
Hence the idea was conceived of an immediate compromise plan which Chamberlain might present to Hitler—provided that meantime the German army had not moved to aid the Sudeten Germans on the plea of Czech aggression.

It was this danger that caused the cabinet to agree, above everything, that haste was necessary.

King George's ministers, in their fateful meeting, gathered at 5 a. m. around the oval, polished oak table in the cabinet room of No. 10 Downing street today to hear Chamberlain's report on his talk.

SIX PERSONS DIE AS AUTO GOES THROUGH BRIDGE

MANITOWOC, Wis., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Six persons drowned late last night when their automobile crashed through the railing of an old wooden bridge and carried them to the bottom of the Manitowoc river. Police were investigating the possibility that the driver had been distracted by a smoldering cigarette on the rear seat.

The dead were Martin Witzak, driver, 32, and his wife, Helen, 21, married only a month ago; Louis Vande Castle, 42, Mrs. Witzak's father; and his three other children, Lorraine, 8, Joan, 7, and Donald, 5.

The bridge is located within the city proper and is entered from the west via a sharp turn. It was at the turn that the accident occurred.

NOMINEE WHO DOESN'T WANT ELECTIVE OFFICE COMPLETES CAMPAIGN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 17.—(UP)—His funds exhausted, Special Officer Thomas H. Leary wound up his "Don't Vote For Me" campaign today without the usual whirlwind tour.

When he found friends had placed him on the ballot as Ward 9 candidate for the Democratic state convention, Leary allotted 25 cents for expenses.

"That is now gone," he said. "I spent 20 cents to hire boys to throw rotten fruit at a sign some misguided person tacked up in my behalf. The other five cents went for the purchase of a false mustache to frighten babies."

The election is Tuesday.

R. E. A. STUDIES PLANS

Poles Shipped For Work In Five Points-Pherson Communities

Announcement from Washington, Saturday, disclosed that the Rural Electrification Administration has given consideration to an application of the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., for an additional loan of $260,000 to extend its power lines in Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties.

This project includes the portion of Pickaway county west of the Scioto river. The project covers 260 miles of lines serving 780 farms. About 180 miles of the lines, serving approximately 540 customers, will be in Pickaway county, 30 miles of lines in Fairfield county, and 50 in Perry county.

The Rural Electrification Administration has already allotted $438,000 to the cooperative. Allotments of $105,000 and $100,000 were used for lines in Fairfield county. The last allocation of $233,000 is being used for lines in Fairfield, Pickaway and Perry counties. Lines are now being erected in the Amanda district. These will be extended into the eastern portion of Pickaway county in about two weeks.

Poles on Hand
Poles to complete the construction of about 28 miles of lines in the Five Points area have been received and work is being rushed as rapidly as possible. The large part of this work is in Monroe township. Home wiring is being speeded so lines in the district may

Need For Changes Cited In President's Address

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—President Roosevelt declared today that America's greatest leaders have been those who have sought to make the U. S. Constitution workable in the face of new problems and changing conditions from the time of its adoption to the present day.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement was made in an address delivered on the occasion of a celebration at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., commemorating the 150th anniversary of the first state constitutional convention in the United States.

U. S. PREPARES TO PROTECT CANAL ZONE WITH BASE

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The United States will establish a huge Caribbean naval air base in Puerto Rico, as an important unit in the defense of the Panama canal.

Definite plans for the base were discussed yesterday at a conference attended by Gov. Blanton Winship, Admiral A. J. Heppburn, members of a visiting naval board, and Col. J. W. Wright, commander of the 65th U. S. infantry.

The board has selected Isla Grande, in upper San Juan harbor, as the site best suited for the base which would be of great strategic value not only in defense of the canal but of the southeastern coast of the United States.

The board decided that the site was capable of housing 24 sea planes and 90 land planes. In event of an emergency the base could care for double that number.

The army and public health service will retain space on Isla Grande but the base will be placed under a unified naval command.

Admiral Heppburn said Puerto Rico would be of great strategic significance in the event of war. He and other members of the board will leave by plane for Washington today.

COURT UPHOLDS INDICTMENTS OF DAVEY'S AIDES

Judge Robert Duncan Of Franklin County Says Grand Jury Legal

SOLICITATION IS CHARGED

18 Of Governor's Backers Named In Charges Prior To Primary Vote

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Legality of the special grand jury which indicted 18 aides of Governor Davey on charges of violating civil service regulations was upheld by Judge Robert P. Duncan in Franklin county Common Pleas court today.

The 18 state employees were charged with soliciting civil service workers for contributions to the governor's primary campaign. He lost the Democratic nomination to Charles Sawyer in the August primary election.

The grand jury validity was challenged on the ground that it had operated beyond the term of court in which it was appointed. Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy had the grand jury investigate Ohio's parole and pardon system before investigating alleged political "shakedowns."

A demurrer was filed, upholding the jury's action in indicting the 18, and Judge Duncan today sustained the demurrer.

DELAY IN LOANS DOESN'T BOTHER WHEAT GROWERS

Report from Columbus, Saturday, that government loans to wheat farmers on grain stored in Ohio elevators and terminal markets are being held up because of the failure of the market and elevator operators to sign agreements to handle the grain does not bother Pickaway county farmers.

So far only one Pickaway county farmer has applied for a government loan on his wheat. His crop is stored on his farm. It is understood the elevators and market operators are seeking a higher rate.

About 40 township committees under the soil conservation program met at the Farm Bureau home Friday for an educational discussion of the 1939 program. Paul Mattheas, secretary of the county A. A. Hitler's Terms Like Ultimatum

Britain And France Urged To Force Czechs To Accept Nazi Proposal; Situation Declared Most Tense

By WEBB MILLER
BERLIN, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Adolf Hitler at Berchtesgaden Thursday presented Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain with an uncompromising demand for cession of the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia to Germany in terms almost tantamount to an ultimatum. He did not set a time limit. But he insisted with greatest determination that Germany could not tolerate much longer the "continuous Czech attacks on Sudeten Germans."

This, I learned today, was the unexpected development which sent Chamberlain scurrying back to London after only a little more than one hour of effective talk, although he had planned to remain longer.

Hitler in effect put it up to Great Britain and France to force the Czechoslovak government to agree to what would amount to dismemberment.

"Sell Czechs Down River"
In other words, Hitler placed Britain and France in a position where they either would have to "sell the Czechs down the river" or face the imminent possibility that Germany would take military action with its connotations of the danger of war.

When Chamberlain asked Hitler to define the "self determination" which he had mentioned, the Fuehrer left no doubt that he meant cession of Sudetenland to his Nazi Reich.

Hitler emphasized his desire for a peaceful solution but did not conceal that Germany might feel impelled to act unless there was a solution shortly.

Chamberlain's arrangement to meet Hitler probably Tuesday at Godesberg, near Bonn on the Rhine, froze the crisis for a few days. But actually it was even more acute than before the Berchtesgaden meeting.

The Czechoslovak government's order for dissolution of the Sudeten German party certainly brought the crisis nearer the breaking point so far as Hitler was concerned.

POINT AFTER TOUCHDOWN DEFEATS TIGERS IN SEASON'S OPENER

West Jefferson Victor 7 to 6

Red And Black Gridders Score In Second Period On Pass; Invading Fullback Drives Line For Necessary Points

Circleville Tigers can't seem to get over the first game of the football season without defeat. Last year Groveport inaugurated play under the lights and went home on the long end of a score. Friday evening, West Jefferson came to town and after four periods of football gained a 7-6 victory.

Each team was able to score one touchdown, Circleville's on the second period pass, Marvin Jenkins to Paul Walters, from the nine yard line, and West Jefferson's on a plunge through center by Friday, Jeff fullback, in the third quarter from the five yard stripe. The Circleville try for point failed when Walters' pass to Johnny Noggle was too short for the receiver to handle.

Jefferson won the game on its extra point, Friday smacking the same hole in the center of the Tiger line for the seventh counter.

Tears in Tiger Quarters The crowd was big and enthusiastic, Coach Roy Black and his boys were confident—maybe too much so. After the game there was joy in the Jefferson dressing room and tears in the Tiger quarters. The veterans of the Red and Black wanted to win. Every boy in the game was trying to win, but the outcome was not in Circleville's favor. Breaks on rule violations were in favor of the Tigers, West Jefferson being penalized twice for illegal use of the hands on the offense, and both penalties came during drives that looked like West Jefferson touchdowns.

Another time a Circleville pass was legal because of interference, giving the Red and Black hope. But the victory just wouldn't come. The only break the Tigers had in the rules department was in the last minute of the game when Johnny Noggle got loose for about 10 yards only to be called back for an offside penalty. What might have happened without this rule violation no one knows, although the Tigers still had a long way to go from that point.

Fumble Proves Costly West Jefferson tossed a scare into the Tiger camp in the first period after receiving and punting back. The Tigers held the invaders on their first series, but the Jeffs covered Woodward's fumble on the second Circleville offensive play, taking the ball on the 40 yard line. A first down with Friday totling the leather carried the ball to the Red and Black 28, but Miller, invading center, was caught holding and the ball went back 15 yards.

The Jeffs were held after that penalty, Kile punting out of bounds on the 32. Jenkins broke away for a nice run to the 45 from punt formation, but no more gain was forthcoming. Woodward punting to the Jefferson 39.

West Jefferson made a first down before Dub Nelson bobbed up into the air to intercept an over-the-line pass on the 44 just as the period ended. From this point the Red and Black drove for its touchdown. Jenkins carried the leather three straight times for a first down to the Jefferson 34. Noggle picked up five and Woodward six more to make it another first down. Another series of plays, Jenkins carrying the leather on all three instances, took the ball to the 13. Noggle picked up one and Woodward got three more, then Jenkins passed to Walters over the goal line. The ball was almost on the ground when the Tiger quarterback snagged it.

Pass Play Fails A pass play for point after touchdown failed although Noggle, the potential receiver, was in the clear. The ball was not tossed far enough.

The rest of the first half saw-sawed with neither team gaining an advantage although the Tigers advanced the pigskin to the Jefferson 34 before losing it just as the half ended.

West Jefferson turned on the heat at the start of the second half, receiving a short kickoff and moving from the 40 to the Circleville 11 yard line in a series of line thrusts and over-the-line passes. Friday did most of the ball totting, while Kile did the passing. Gyer being on the reception end of most of the flings.

After the invaders carried the ball to the 11, Gyer was caught holding and the pigskin was moved back to the 26. A play gained one, then a pass was too low. A Kile to Gyer pass netted 10, but Friday was stopped on the seven yard line, short of the first down and the Tigers took the ball.

Sleeper Punt Wins Woodward punted to Biggett on the 27 and then came the blow. Gyer, Jefferson end, dropped down along the south side for a sleeper pass. Two members of the Circleville secondary saw him and started toward the sidelines to cover him, but neither went far enough. Kile heaved a long pass to the end, it connected and was

Worthington, Next Tiger Foe, Beaten

Worthington, Circleville high school opponent next Friday, put up a real battle against a heavy Delaware team before losing Friday, 13-0. Delaware scored in the second and fourth periods, the first by a pass and the second by rushing.

Granville, led by Quarterback Taverner, fought the Lancaster-Gales varsity to a 0-0 draw. The college town team comes to Circleville Sept. 30 for the booster night game.

Three Lancaster threats failed to produce a score. Greenfield, met by the Tigers later in the season, was forced to gain a 7-6 victory over the Wheelburg varsity. Both scores came in the first half, Greenfield getting its marker after a punt was blocked into the end zone.

Urbana, coached last year by Roy Black, Tiger mentor, went down before Bellefontaine, 6-0, in its season's opener.

good for a first down to the 11 yard line. A touchdown was a mere formality, Friday smacking for five yards, then one and then the touchdown. He hit the same spot each time.

Friday smacked the line again for the point. The Tiger offensive just wouldn't relick in the remainder of the game, although West Jefferson backs interfered with Don Jackson, who was trying to receive a pass on the 27 yard line. That was as near as the Red and Black went, an off-side penalty costing five yards. Another pass was into the hands of West Jefferson's Kile just as the third session closed. The Jeffs played safe during the final period, running several plays then punting.

The game ended with Circleville trying several passes, none of which found its mark. West Jefferson gained eight first downs, Circleville getting seven. No allis were offered by Coach Black after the ball game. "We just didn't play the kind of ball of which we are capable," he said.

Worthington is the Tiger's next foe, invading the local balliwick next Friday night.

PIRATES REFUSE TO LOSE GROUND IN TITLE RACE

Pittsburghers Divide Two Games With Bees; Cubs Meet Giants

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The tenth man on the Pittsburgh Pirates' team these days in their drive for the National league flag is Father Time. Every day that passes brings the Pirates nearer the pennant. They may be backing into it, as some of the boys rather broadly assert, but they're getting there just the same.

The Pirates aren't exactly a ball of fire, but every time someone knocks them down they get right back up. And every time they get up Father Time chalks up a point for them because they are that much nearer the Oct. 2 finish line. The situation with the contenders is that they have to catch the Pirates and none of them has shown any serious signs of putting on a red-hot drive. And the time is getting short.

Second Game Blown

Golden opportunity to deal a knockout blow to the other contenders was passed up by the Pirates yesterday when they split a doubleheader with the Boston Bees. After winning the first game, 7-6, when Johnny Rizzo hit his 20th homer in the eleventh, the Pirates blew the second game in the ninth. After the Pirates had scored two runs in the ninth inning of the nightcap to break a 2-2 tie, the Bees came back with three runs in their half. Johnny Cooney's single drove in the tying and winning runs.

The split left the Pirates with a 3-game lead over the Cubs, each with 18 games remaining on the schedule. Idle yesterday, the Cubs play a doubleheader against the Giants at the Polo grounds today. The Cubs, needing a sweep to stay in pursuit of the Pirates, will call on their two aces, Bill Lee and Clay Bryant.

Cincinnati missed a chance to pick up ground by dividing with the Phillies. Paul Derringer became the first National league pitcher to win 20 games as the Reds won the opener 2-0. He allowed eight hits. Ernie Lombardi's 17th homer and Wally Berger's triple followed by an infield out gave the Reds their runs. Hugh Mulcahy won his fourth straight in stopping the Reds on three hits in the nightcap, 2-1. The Reds' only run resulted from two errors in the ninth by Del Young.

The St. Louis Cardinals beat Brooklyn twice, 4-1 and 8-4, to increase their sixth place lead over the Dodgers to four games. Johnny Mize's triple drove in two runs in the opener. Country Slaughter's homer with two on topped the Cards' 4-run fourth in the nightcap.

The New York Yankees need only two games to clinch the American league pennant after their 6-4 victory over Detroit. Lefty Gomez, although allowing 11 hits, won his 17th game. Frankie Crosetti drove in three Yank runs with a single and double.

The Boston Red Sox increased their second place margin over

I. L. FAVORITES ON SHORT END IN TITLE PLAY

THE shoe was on the other foot in the International league play-offs for the Governor's cup today as play moved to Rochester and Buffalo for the next three games.

The pennant-winning Newark Bears and the second place Syracuse Chiefs, who were favored to meet in the final before the play-offs started, found themselves in the underdog's roles today as a result of dropping the first two encounters of the best of seven series.

The third place Rochester Red Wings made it two straight over the Bears with a 2-1 decision. Young Atley Donald, who limited the Wings to six hits over the route, threw away his own game in the eighth inning with a wild peg over second base attempting to catch Outfielder Johnny Hopp off the sack. Hopp took third on the play and scored the winning run on Spec Cobb's long fly. Catcher Buddy Rosar, who accounted for three of Newark's seven hits off Bob Bowman and Si Johnson, was responsible for the Bears' only tally—a home run tied off Bowman in the fourth. Rochester tied it up in the seventh when two pinch hitters, Jack Sturdy and Oscar Judd, doubled and singled consecutively.

The runner-up chiefs were handcuffed by the five-hit pitching of Mike Kowalk as the fourth place Buffalo Bisons won their second straight, 4-1. The Bisons reached Gee and Miner for seven, which they coupled with one Syracuse error for their victory.

Cleveland to two games by defeating the Indians, 2-1. Archie McKain smothered the Indians in the pinches.

The New York Yankees need only two games to clinch the American league pennant after their 6-4 victory over Detroit.

Lefty Gomez, although allowing 11 hits, won his 17th game. Frankie Crosetti drove in three Yank runs with a single and double.

The Boston Red Sox increased their second place margin over

Jonathan: Courageous Friendship

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—I Samuel 14:1-46; 18:1-4; 19:1-7; 20:1-42; 23:15-18; II Samuel 1:17-27.

Jonathan first learned to love David the day David slew Goliath, the Philistine, in battle. Then and there "the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David and he loved him as his own soul."

King Saul became very jealous of David and often tried to kill him. He tried also to make his son Jonathan jealous of David. But Jonathan's love for David remained unchanged.

On one occasion Jonathan and David made a covenant of friendship with one another and arranged certain signals with the shooting of arrows to reveal Saul's attitude towards David.

Jonathan was killed with Saul in battle and David mourned for his friend, saying, "O Jonathan, I am distressed for thee, my brother."

Jonathan: Courageous Friendship

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 18 is I Samuel 14:1-46; 18:1-4; 19:1-7; 20:1-42; II Samuel 1:17-27, especially I Samuel 20:4-17, the Golden Text being Proverbs 17:17, "A friend loveth at all times.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

"HE MUST increase, but I must decrease." So said John the Baptist of Jesus when some tried to arouse in his soul a sense of jealousy over Jesus increasing popularity. So also would Jonathan, son of Saul, have said of his friend David, "He must increase, but I must decrease."

Jonathan's Soul Knit With David's David's victory over Goliath challenged the utmost admiration of Jonathan who witnessed the conflict. Such courage and heroism he had never seen. Brave as he was himself, Jonathan had suffered Goliath's challenge to go untripped for 40 days. Then came the stripping from Bethlehem with his shepherd's sling and stones from the brook and vindicated God's cause when even Jonathan dared not to undertake the conflict, with the result that "the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul." It was their likeness of soul that made them knit together so well and so abidingly for "no man putteth a piece of new cloth into an old garment." It was a true affinity of soul that accounts for the beautiful friendship that knitted the souls of David and Jonathan together in a pattern excelled in beauty only by the friendship of the "Friend of publicans and sinners." When Saul's jealous soul breathed out threatnings and slaughter against David, Jonathan swore allegiance to David, and David to Jonathan and to his seed after him: "So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David... and Jonathan caused David to swear again, because he loved him: for he loved him as he loved his own soul."

"Passing the Love of Women" Of Jonathan's love David sang with all the passion and ecstasy of his poetic soul; "How are the mighty fallen in the midst of battle! O Jonathan, thou wast slain in thy high places. I am distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan: thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women." Not only with feminine tenderness did Jonathan love David, but as a woman leaves all that her father hath for the love of her lover, so Jonathan forsook throne and scepter and all the glory of his father's kingdom for his love of David. "Thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thine own confusion," snarled Saul at Jonathan. "For as long as the son of Jesse liveth on the ground, thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom." Jonathan knew all this well. But what things were gain to him he counted loss for the excellency of the love he bore David.

"The Friend of Sinners" "And Jonathan stripped himself of that robe that was upon him, and gave it to David." Greater love hath no man than this, except the love Christ Jesus, the Friend of sinners, has shown to all of us and sealed with his own blood. His robe of righteousness he yielded to us; his throne of glory he left to seek and to save us that we might share his glory and reign with him. "What language shall I borrow to thank Thee, dearest Friend, for this Thy dying sorrow, Thy pity without end! O make me Thine forever, and should I fainting be, Lord let me never, never, outlive my love to Thee!"

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.
GERMANY PREPARED FOR WAR
WASHINGTON—Most important factor to remember regarding the present European belligerency is that the Germans are completely prepared. They have been working toward this day with typical German precision, now figure that this is the time to get what they want.
The extent to which Germany is armed and on a virtual war basis is difficult for anyone on this side of the Atlantic to conceive, according to confidential reports received here. No secret is made of this fact by the Germans, probably because of the psychological effect it will have on their enemies.
Not long ago General Vuillemon, chief of the French Air Corps, inspected Germany's air force. The Nazis appeared to be completely above-board with him, took him all through their factories, showed the quantity of planes they were manufacturing.
Flabbergasted by Germany's air strength, Vuillemon afterwards reported to Premier Daladier that the Germans must be making planes for export—that they were manufacturing far too many for domestic use alone. He estimated that the German army was equipped with at least 7,000 fighting machines.
Although General Goering probably exaggerated when he boasted of Germany's food supplies, confidential reports do indicate that the Nazis are sufficiently prepared to risk a war of moderate duration.
Grain and oil have been coming in from Rumania and Yugoslavia in tremendous quantities, together with various other raw materials. Obviously the Nazis are not going to make the same mistake they did in 1914 regarding supplies.
Last winter, when Hitler reorganized the army's high command and appointed as chief of staff a mediocre general who previously was in charge of "pots and pans", the move was interpreted as a slap at other general staff members. Now, however, it looks as if Hitler might have wanted a man in command who would concentrate on the accumulation of vast war reserves. Anyway he now has those reserves.

ANOTHER SPAIN?
THE world gasped, took a breath, and then applauded the gesture of Neville Chamberlain in going to Germany to offer Hitler a plan for world peace. But not everyone who admired the courage and judgment which inspired the trip had much hope of what would come of it. There were those who thought it meant Czechoslovakia would simply become another Spain.
This school of thought took the attitude that the conference of September fifteenth simply meant that the great powers would find some way to save face while backing down. They would avoid a major war, leaving the Sudetens and the Czechoslovakian government to fight it out themselves, with long-drawn skirmishes leading at last to civil war.
That is a dark vision, not at all impossible of coming true. It leads to the belief that the world catastrophe will come out tremendously and at once, but slowly and in spots. Here is China. Here is Palestine. There is the Russo-Japanese border. Spain is becoming exhausted just as Czechoslovakia begins. There is always danger of trouble in India and South America.
Before this picture of the return to barbarism of the whole human race, the idea of one big major war involving clear-cut ideas of what the world wants, with victory, at length, inevitably in favor of democracy, becomes as a clean, sharp surgical operation compared with a lingering disease.
The world wakes from these black dreams to hope for the best.

BRITISH FOOD
Reactions to Germany's war threats are diametrically opposite in France and Great Britain.
The French are taking the matter with relative stoicism, have expected for some time that they would have to fight Germany, believe the date cannot be postponed much longer.
The British, however, are panic-stricken, especially members of the Cabinet. Chief reason for British terror is their food supply. It is sufficient to last only five weeks, meanwhile the war-time problem of shipping food to Britain has become increasingly difficult.
actions to new, strange circumstances, of curiosity and suspense.
Some old Hindu had a word of advice: "Thou shalt not let thy senses make a playground of thy mind."
Now, if ever, America needs cool, clear thought. It is remote in space from the scene of action abroad. It must hold itself detached in its attitude. Americans must restrain their emotions. For themselves and for the world they must use their keen, sane minds.

USING THE MIND
AMERICANS as a whole have pretty good minds. They don't always use them to the best advantage, but when they really need to, they can always "turn a keen, untroubled gaze, Home, to the instant need of things."
With war in Europe raging, or about to rage, or postponing the raging, Americans had better start using their minds. Functioning on the emotions is never a very good plan, and least of all when emotional strain can so easily lead to mob hysteria.
The air is full of emotion at present, hardly to be avoided. To everyone old enough to remember clearly anything at all about the World War, there is profound depression in these present days. The mere sight of maps on the front pages of newspapers, of military terms creeping into editorial comment, a glance at a half-knitted sweater are enough to fill the air with grief and dread. Must we go through all that again?
The young are half-frightened, half-excited, not too sure of their own attitudes. Young and old alike are conscious of the stimulation of the situation, of sensitive re-

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour
PAGES from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:
Up, out and about the ville at the usual hour, finding nothing unusual for the time of day, so did head for the post and then the plant. George Davis, the pressman, was waiting for me with a question about the situation in Europe. "Do you think we will get into war if there is one," he asked. I told him that the best I could do was hope. "Well," he said, "if we are going to get into it and I have to go I hope it is before we get started on that Pumpkin Show edition."
Dropped into the Coffee Club and under compulsion played host to Bud Harden, Paul Johnson, John Hummel, Franklin Kibler. Wonder where Charlie Gilmore was? My, but I was easy. Strolled across the street to admire the face lifting and rejuvenating job being done on the First monerie building. Saw John Walters in deep conversation with Wallace Crist and edged in, hoping to learn whether or not the Republicans again seek to take over the Crist room for the campaign. Not a peep out of either one of them, so I knew no more when I left than when I arrived.

Chucked again over a story told by Dr. Throop at the joint Rotary session Thursday evening. An intoxicated man staggered to the edge of the sidewalk and then continued his progress, walking with one foot on the street and the other atop the curb. A friend approached, studied him and declared: "John, you're drunk." "What you say?" asked the drunk and again the statement was made. "John, you're drunk." "Well, thank goodness for that," said John. "I was beginning to think I am permanently crippled." That's funny, I think, even if it is about a drunk.

Body Cell Degeneration Discussed
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THIS WEEK we have agreed to study the fundamental tissue changes that occur in the body in diseased states. These fundamental processes are inflammation, embolism, hemorrhage, degeneration, hypertrophy, atrophy, immunity and tumor formation.
The process which occurs most often is inflammation. You never scratch your finger or bang your shin against a chair, or suffer the bite of a mosquito, or burn your skin, even so much as an area the size of the head of a pin, or have Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.
a pimple, or a boil, or a cut, or a drop of carbolic on you, but what inflammation sets in. You probably never say "ouch" that the same thing doesn't occur.
Please also regard the process of inflammation with favor and gratitude. It is your best friend. All the aches, like punctions and hot water bottles and antiseptics and salves, are simply aids to make it more efficient. If you had no process of inflammation in your system, they would not do a bit of good. Without it you would be a kind of Humpty-Dumpty person and any injury would be your last.
Inflammation is generally defined as the sum of the processes occurring after injury or insult to the tissues. Insult includes invasion of bacteria. As any one can see on his own person, the symptoms of inflammation are pain, swelling, redness and heat.
The cause of these symptoms is easy to understand when we know the actions that the different tissue cells undergo in the process. As soon as any injury or infection occurs to any tissue, the blood vessels in the immediate neighborhood begin to enlarge. Why this should be no one knows. It is one of the most fascinating and mysterious adjustments of Nature. No pharmacist could make them do that. And, thank heaven, no pharmacologist with any of his drugs can stop them for very long.
It is one of the beneficent acts of Nature, because those dilated vessels bring cells to kill off the invaders and cells to mend the breach. The dilated vessels also cause the pain, but even this is a good thing, because it keeps the part still and allows the process to go on in peace.
These friendly cells soon leave the dilated blood vessels and go out into the tissue spaces around the injury. Here they kill off bacteria if any are present, or begin to throw out strands to bridge the gap. Some carry away debris. The thing is carried out with all the efficiency of an engineering construction.
I have described a very simple kind of inflammation, but the more complicated ones are simply elaborations of this.
Is there anything that can be done to aid the process? Yes, a few things. Rest of the part is the most important. If you had a bridge under construction you wouldn't expect a few earthquakes in the neighborhood to help. Keeping a superficial wound covered and using antiseptics is helpful. Heat or cold, either one, are comforting and do not interfere with the process. Whether a hot water bag or an ice cap makes no difference. Their physiological action is the same.
EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

MANY a contract can be defeated by any one of several different lines of defense, yet is made, anyway. Such fortune for the declarer is usually due to the difficulty of his opponents in trying to infer the composition of each other's hands. led a heart to East's A. East returned a diamond to South's A. The outstanding trumps were drawn and the club J offered. East won and that was the last trick for his side.
When West led the spade K, East hoped, as he played low, that West would lead a trump to prevent South from ruffing a spade. J was not necessary for him to put the guess up to West. By overcalling the first trick, he had cashed the heart A and led another and that would have kept South from game. The lead of the club 2 on the second trick by West would have achieved the same result.

AFRAID TO MARRY
HELEN WELSHIMER
Written for and Released by CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION
READ THIS FIRST:
Judy Rogers, a New York heiress, is looking for a job because her father has been wiped out in a financial crash. When her father goes west with her step-mother, her own mother being abroad and remarried, Judy moves to a small hotel. Her father's old friend, Craig Denby, the man she loved, married another girl she finds solace in the company of Ronald Birrell, brilliant young attorney from Tennessee, who recently joined the firm of her father's lawyers. Afraid of marriage, Judy realizes that is why she lost Craig. When she learns from her friend, Marjorie, that Craig and Mary, his bride of a few weeks, have separated, Judy calls on Mary and phones Craig in an effort to bring them back together. A second call on Mary is necessary to bring about a reconciliation. Judy cannot find work and one evening she returns to the hotel to find herself locked out because her rent is overdue. On the day she lands a job at Danceland as a hostess, Ronald tells her of an opening as a social secretary to the wealthy and ambitious Abbey Boland, engaged to marry a count. Judy declines it. When a reporter spots Judy at Danceland, she decides to take the job as a hostess. Her eyes were dark purple under long, curly, black lashes. She was taller than average, and quite slender. Her dress was a twilight lavender, and slippers of darker hue were on her feet. Her slim silver bracelets were set with amethysts.
The dream lasted until she spoke. Her voice was too high, too rapid, as though it hurried to overtake a phrase which always ran ahead.
"You're Miss Rogers, of course," Abbey stated instead of asking, "Are you comfortable?"
"Oh, yes, very. It's a delightful room. I like the view of the Sound and the open wood fire is too tempting to make me stir."
Abbey dropped down in a chair, and when she did she looked very young, almost a child.
"There's a lot of work to be done. We are having almost a continuous house party until after the wedding, so there are sleighing parties when the snow comes, skating and skiing. Oh, yes, the swimming pool is an indoor affair, with cabanas and sun lamps on the terrace. We have a great deal. The fire in the library, or down in the game room. I'll go over lists and plans with you tomorrow. Is ten o'clock too early?"
"Ten o'clock is fine. I'd like to get organized."
"We are having a dinner tomorrow night, and I want favors for the guests. I've a whole box of possible things you can sort. If you knew the people you could decide better."
"Maybe I do know them," Judy said gently.
"Oh, of course. I almost forgot that you are THE Judy Rogers."
Maybe you'll want to come to dinner instead of eating alone."
Judy's head came up swiftly, as though it had been worn a crown and would wear one some day soon again. "No, thank you. I'm here to do a job, that's all."
She wondered if she fancied the relief on Abbey Boland's thin face. She detected a snobbish trait in the wealthy girl, one which refused to admit that a paid worker in the household had social position. Something intangible passed between the two girls. Judy felt it. It might have been a challenge. Maybe it was a warning. She didn't know.
"If you need anything just ring for Myra. She's the maid in this section of the house," Abbey said, and excused herself.
From below Judy heard laughter, light voices, music. She hung her dresses, unpacked her books, took a bath and brushed her hair. She climbed into the wide bed but could not sleep. Presently she got up, put on a skirt and warm sweater, and a brown tam on her curly hair, and slipped down the back stairway. She let herself out and walked in the cold blue air, throwing her head to the stars, looking far, far across the Sound. In the house she felt like a prisoner. Under the dark canopy of the silver-bright stars she was free. This beauty she knew.
She came back in an hour tired, sleepy, at peace. The side door was locked. She rang a bell but no one answered. There were lots of doors, she decided. One of them would be open. She crossed to the south side of the house, but there was no response at the two doors there. She found another one, and rang in vain. Apparently the servants were busy elsewhere, or callers were using the wide front door.
She had avoided that entrance purposely, fearing she might run into the dinner party. Well, there was no help. She would avert her face if she met anyone and slip unobtrusively up the stairs.
She knew she had made a mistake the moment she entered. The dinner party, about to go to the nearby club for further festivities, was assembled in the wide hall. Someone gave the signal.
"Judy!"
"Judy Rogers, where have you been?"
"Hi, Judy, welcome back! The town's been dead without you." They surrounded her. They pulled her this way and that. They let her know how they welcomed her.
The young people whom she did not know gazed at her with eager interest. She sensed that she had stolen the limelight. It was funny. She, Judy Rogers, working for a living, was standing in the middle of this dressed-up group, wearing an old brown sweater and tam, and wondering how Abbey was taking it.
Abbey had made no sound. She stood aloof, lips narrowed, eyebrows drawn, watching.
A young man pulled her forward. "Say, Abbey, what do you mean keeping Judy shut up! Don't let her pull that 'I-want-to-be-alone' stuff on you. She's the friendliest girl in the east. Remember the time at the Sigma Nu dance, Judy...?"
The inner circle closed around Judy. The young people who belonged to society as it appeared in the blue book and the social register lined up with Judy. The others, not in it themselves, and closer friends of Abbey's, made her cohort.
Into the midst of the gaiety, a tall, dark young man came. His eyes were lazy, amused, a trifle cynical. He had a small black mustache, a disarming smile, dark hair, a stubborn chin.
"What is it?" he asked.
"Judy!" Two of the young men told him. "In person! Judy Rogers!" They turned to Judy. "It's Count Philippe."
The count bowed deeply.
"And who, may I ask, is Judy? Probably I should know but I must confess—" He shook his head dubiously.
"I'm secretary to Miss Boland," Judy told him, watching his surprise.
"She's a daughter of Malcolm Rogers of the Street," somebody added.
"Oh, yes, yes, of course." His eyes narrowed and his expression said that he remembered the story. "Your mother is abroad, is she not? I met her last year, and she mentioned a daughter."
"Philippe, we're late." Abbey's icy tones ended the conversation. The merry-makers went through the great door into the waiting cars. Judy went up the steps alone.
She wished that she had stayed out of doors half an hour longer. This meeting could have been avoided. She knew instinctively Abbey resented it. She knew, also, that Abbey was going to desperate measures to enhance her social prestige in the eyes of the count. She must have pulled some pretty fine strings to get two or three of those people to come to her dinner.
It seemed rather absurd and foolish, this fire-point technique of the social game. Once it had been important. No, she told herself, it hadn't. She had yielded to it because it was part of her life. Gratefully she realized that she preferred, really preferred, to be on the outside accomplishing something.
She slipped into cream satin pajamas, threw the windows wide, and climbed into bed. She was half asleep when the telephone at her bed rang. She picked it up. She had noted a minute switchboard in the lower hall which the butler operated. Who could be wanting her?
"Judy?" The cheerful, confident tones belonged to Ronald Birrell. "How are you doing?"
"Oh, fine! I'm unpacked, and I've got a view of the Sound, and an open wood fire. Why didn't you come to the party tonight?"
"I wasn't invited," he answered ruefully.
"Neither was I." She couldn't resist that.
"But I am included in the week-end festivities. I'm coming out tomorrow night."
She was glad, Judy realized.

Social Calendar

Honoring Mrs. H. A. Sayre of N. Pickaway street, the members of her sewing club entertained at a farewell dinner, Friday evening. Dinner was served at the Wardell party home at 6 o'clock covers being placed for Mrs. Sayre, Mrs. R. F. Lilly, Mrs. S. B. Orr, Mrs. Oscar Howard, Mrs. Mary Kibler, Mrs. C. F. Abernethy, Mrs. A. L. Wilder, Mrs. H. Waldon Plum, Mrs. R. R. Bales and Miss Marvane Howard.

A large bowl of gladioli centered the long table where the guests were served.

An evening of reminiscences was enjoyed following the dinner hour. Before dispersing, Mrs. Sayre was presented a beautiful silver bowl as a farewell gift of the club of which she has been a member during her stay in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Sayre will leave with her family, Tuesday, for their new home in Price Hill, near Cincinnati.

Presbyterian Women's Club

Mrs. Bernard W. Young talked on "Hobbies" Friday evening at the September session of the Women's Social club of the Presbyterian church. More than fifty members and guests heard her interesting discourse.

In the absence of Mrs. Hulse Hays, president, Mrs. B. T. Hedges, vice president, conducted the meeting. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. Loring Evans in the absence of Mrs. Leland Pontius. Mrs. Hedges announced that the Circleville Benevolent association would sponsor a Silver Tea for the benefit of the Milk Fund, Thursday, Sept. 29, at the city cottage, and extended an invitation for the club members to attend.

Mrs. E. O. Crites, Mrs. Richard Jones and Mrs. S. M. Cryder, members of the standing program committee, presented the evening's program using "Hobbies" for the topic. In opening the program each contributed short readings discussing hobbies in general. Mrs. Crites then introduced Mrs. Young, who is a former member of the church, and is quite active in the work among the young people of Emmitt's Chapel and of the Pickaway township school.

Mrs. Young opened her talk by telling the many meanings of the word "Hobby" and told of hers and how she rides them. Her Sunday school class stands out as her first hobby. She reviewed the work briefly of the last few years telling of the accomplishments of some of the pupils and how they felt the class helped them. She feels her next important hobby is her work with 4-H clubs, with which she has been associated for the last nine years. She told of the many expressions of the philosophy of life as given by these young people whom she contacts.

Mrs. Young believes that the hobby of service brings the greatest reward. She spoke of her new hobby, that of the work with the young people of Pickaway township school. She mentioned the great need of understanding and sympathy for the young in their formative years. She also has a book hobby, clinging to six of the old ones which she keeps close at hand. In conclusion she urged the need of each one to step out of the crowd and live his own life and expressed the belief that oversophistication obscures the true meaning of life.

Cookies and tea were served by the hostess committee. The attractive tea table was centered with a bowl of late summer flowers in shades of blue, lavender and pink, flanked with tall green tapers in squat silver holders. Mrs. Hedges presided at the silver tea service.

The hostess committee included Miss Florence Dunton, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Loring Evans, Mrs. James H. Adams, Mrs. Marvin Steeley, Mrs. Stanley Lewis, Mrs. E. S. Shane, Mrs. H. O. Pile and Miss Bernadine Hutz.

Birthday Surprise
The family of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Brobst, S. Pickaway street,

Home storage of cabbages

THERE ARE many ways of storing cabbages for winter use, but never store them in the cellar of the house nor too close to the windows for the odor is apt to become offensive.

One very effective method of storing is illustrated in the Garden-Graph. Pull the plants, roots and all, and set them close together in a shallow trench. Cover the roots with earth. Drive boards or stakes into the ground as illustrated, then lay planks across them to form a low, shed-like cover. Bank up the sides with earth and over the planks on top pile straw or any other mulch material to aid in keeping out frost.

As the cabbage heads are cut for use during the winter months, leave the roots in the ground. Early next spring these roots will send up cabbage sprouts which are appetizing for salads or cold slaw.

gathered at their home, Friday evening, and surprised Mr. Brobst on his 73rd birthday anniversary. Dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock to Mr. and Mrs. Floy Brobst and children, Bernard, Paul and Dorothy. PRINCIPAL ADDS
NEW EXCUSE SLIP

Among the changes made this year in the Circleville high school is included a new type of admission slip. The new form will add convenience to the difficult task of recording the attendance, tardiness, excuses, and unexcused marks.

On the slips are different excuses to be checked by the principal after the student has brought in a written note from home telling the reason for absence. The student will then be admitted to his class.

Principal J. Wray Henry explained to a Red and Black reporter, "The new admission blanks will take the place of the four old slips. This will lessen the confusion of so many excuses."

THREE TRY OUT TO LEAD CHEERS

First cheer-leader tryouts were held at the West Jefferson game last night. Applicant Peggy Goeller led the crowd in yells with the varsity cheer-leaders Pat Bennett, Mary Fickard, and Jack Funk.

Helen Evans, Peggy Goeller, and Margaret Good were among those who gave their names to J. Wray Henry, principal, and were coached in the fundamentals by veteran Pat Bennett. Each will have an opportunity to demonstrate her ability before an election is held.

Junior and Senior girl reserves, organized as a cheering section, were in the stands to back up those who faced the crowd for the first time.

EDITORIAL
BACK TO SCHOOL

Back to school! Vacation with its lazy joy is behind us. How hard it is to settle into routine; to resume tasks that were forgotten through the long days of Summer. Do we mind? No, rather we are glad, a sense of peace steals over us and we settle into work. We know that only through these tasks well done can we get the full measure of life we hope for.

Beginning again is like the New Year. We make many resolutions, planning to study a little harder, to enter into more school activities, and to crowd into odd bits of time the many things we thought we would do in the Summer.

It seems good to be with friends, classmates, and teachers that we haven't seen for months. We didn't realize we missed them so much. They've grown rather dear through school association and it's grand to see them again, to exchange experiences of the Summer and plan "togethers" for the Winter. It's good to join with others in the "Red and the Black", to scream a little louder at a pep meeting and to be a little quieter in the hall!

School is our work shop, and we realize no business can succeed without order, harmony and fixed rules of conduct. This is our world. Our problems here are those that will confront us later. Can we be good sports? Can we face disappointment, defeat? Any problem met with courage and good sportsmanship pushes us up just a little higher toward being the kind of man or woman we hope to be.

We know we have a good high school. Why not the best? We can make it that. A little more work, a little more friendship, a heap more courtesy and we are on the way!

Brunelle Parrett Downing.

MARK WITH 133;
22 NEW PUPILS

An increase in enrollment of 34 over last year was shown Friday in the ranks of the Circleville high school student body, raising the total to 423.

Twenty-two new pupils, transferred from other schools, accounted for part of the increase while the freshmen recorded 133, making an all-time record for a first year class.

Juniors followed the freshmen with 108 enrolled. Sophomores were next with 96. The seniors trailed, although the 86 members of that class break another record, for fourth year enrollment.

Among the pupils transferred to Circleville this year from township schools are Alice Dean, Everett Estep, Beatrice Parks, Robert L. Smallwood, Esther Speakman, James Sykes, and Harold Weaver, Wayne; Floyd Burchwell, Roy Burchwell, and Helen Mast, Washington; Edith Kathryn Davis and Ruth Eleanor Montelius, Pickaway; and Virginia Hulise and Mildred Peters, Jackson.

The remaining eight newcomers are from other city schools. They are Warren Bumgarner, Washington C. H.; Jean Craig, Indianapolis, Indiana; Mary Garrett, Williamsport; Ralph Hoffman and Joe Staley, Ashville; Jean Imler, Yuma, Arizona; Lois Johnson, Middletown; and Esther Miller, Westfall, Ohio.

Two pupils have withdrawn from Circleville high school. He is Victor Maxey whose family has removed to Blunt, South Dakota, and Dorothy Holloway who is now in Columbus.

The Red and Black staff, on behalf of the school, extends a hearty welcome to all of these pupils.

Mary Hays heads the staff of the Red and Black for the first six weeks of this year. She has appointed Jo Anne Conyers as assistant editor. At the end of six weeks Jo Anne will become editor and will then choose her assistant.

Assignments for this edition were made Tuesday. Reference books used by the class are Hyde's "Journalistic Writing", Otto's "Journalism For High School", and Harrington's "Writing For Print."

Senior members of the class are Medreth Bach, Mary Hays, Helen Mast, Adelaide May, and W. H. Nelson. Juniors are Jo Anne Conyers, Mary Fickard and Jeanne Kinney. Sophomores, all new members, are Rose Anne Griner, Lloyd Jones, Leland Siegwald, Mary Adele Snider, Sam Stubbs, Paul Turner, Robert Welch, and Harry Winfough.

This is the tenth year that the high school has published the Red and Black. Miss Margaret Mattinson is the adviser again this year.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU.
BY BOB BURNS

I read an article the other day tellin' about what a hard life the city newspaper reporter has'ta lead. The article said that the reason a city reporter is so unwelcome is because the reporter don't call on people unless they've done somethin' they don't like to get in print. I guess it's pretty much the same all over.

One time a cyclone hit Aunt Sophie Ledbetter's house and set it up on end and it scrambled the furniture. When the reporter from the Press-Argus showed up with a camera and said he'd like to take some pictures of the place, Aunt Sophie says, "It's just like you reporters—wanta take pictures of my house when it's so untidy."

Committees To Be Named
For Big Event, Part Of Pumpkin Show

Selection of a site and appointment of committees to handle finances, entries and other details of the saddle horse competition for the Pumpkin Show, Oct. 19 to 22, will be the business before a meeting of saddle horse fanciers called for Monday at 8 p. m. by E. E. Wolf. The meeting will be held in the Albaugh funeral home offices.

Two sites being given the most consideration for the show are the high school athletic field and the ball park, W. Mound street. It is probable a committee will be appointed to meet with the board of education next Tuesday night on the possibility of obtaining the athletic field.

Directors Assure Show
A saddle horse show was assured this week when the directors of the Pickaway County Agriculture society approved an appropriation of $1,500. Entry fees and an admission charge will be made up to help meet expenses.

There will be no admission charge for the draft horse show and horse pulling contests to be held on the ball park. The appropriation made by directors is to cover both saddle and draft horse shows. Fanciers believe about $500 more will be needed to assure a saddle horse show.

The saddle horse show has been one of the outstanding events of the Pumpkin Show in recent years.

THREE COLUMBUS MEN SENTENCED TO PRISONS AS CHICKEN THIEVES

MANY INDICTED PERSONS OFFER INNOCENT PLEAS

William Gaines' Trial To Open Sept. 22; Most Of Men Default Bonds

Three Columbus men were sentenced Saturday to terms of one to 15 years each when they pleaded guilty to chicken theft charges in the arraignment of prisoners indicted by the county grand jury.

Howard Radcliff, 21, was sent to the Mansfield reformatory, and Ralph, 23, and Clarence Goodrich, 29, to the Ohio penitentiary by Judge Meeker Terwilliger.

Radcliff and Ralph Goodrich were indicted in the theft of 50 chickens from Mrs. Paul Beers, Scioto township, July 19. Clarence Goodrich was accused of the theft of 60 chickens from Mrs. Wayne Hoover, Jackson township, Aug. 1.

The three men and Homer Bostic, 26, Columbus, were involved in numerous chicken thefts in Pickaway, Fairfield and Knox counties. Bostic is to be returned to the federal reformatory at Chillicothe as a parole violator.

Tisdale Enters Denial

Hobart Tisdale, 27, Laurelvile, denied a charge of taking 57 chickens from Mrs. Mary E. Seymour, Saltcreek township, Aug. 20. He was unable to furnish $1,000 bond.

William Gaines, 26, of Columbus, denied a statutory charge and was unable to furnish bond of $2,000. His trial has been set for Sept. 22. Gaines is alleged to have made improper advances toward a Jackson township girl after offering her a ride from Columbus.

Edward Boysell, 20, Darbyville, admitted two charges of forgery. George Reeser, 32, Maplewood avenue, admitted a charge of burglary and larceny involving the theft of beer worth $7 from the White and Weaver grocery and beer parlor, S. Scioto street. Sentences on the two guilty pleas were deferred until a later date.

Others arraigned were Charles Brown, E. Mound street, non support, who denied the charge and gave $200 bond; Russell Stonerock and L. E. Burke, both of Circleville, issuing checks with insufficient funds, entered denials and furnished bonds of $200 each; William Reynolds, W. Corwin street, burglary and larceny, pleaded innocent and was unable to provide $1,000 bond; Hedges Laney, Pike county, forgery, denied the charge and could not put up $500 bond, and Lee Reynolds, W. Corwin street, larceny, denied the indictment and did not furnish $200 bond.

Only the one trial date has been set.

TWO FACE COURT FOR RECKLESS AUTO OPERATION

Two arrests on reckless driving charges were reported in police court Saturday.

Thomas White, 25, of 123 W. Mill street, was to report at 7 p. m. He posted $25 bond. The police report said he was driving 75 miles an hour on S. Court street.

Charles Buskirk, 17, Elm avenue, was to report Saturday afternoon before Mayor W. B. Cady. Miller Fissell, deputy sheriff, said Buskirk almost ran over him when he was directing traffic at Court and Corwin streets, Friday night.

The Christian Science Monitor asks if whittling is becoming a lost art. People seem to have put away the knife and taken up the chisel.

SELLING BURST FORCES MARKET TO SKID AGAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Another burst of selling sent the stock market tumbling in the early trading today after a minor decline at a quiet opening.

Offerings came so fast that the ticket machinery clogged. The tape ran several minutes behind the market. Prices declined fractions to $5 a share.

United States Steel sank to $52.75, off $3.62½; Chrysler $65 off $2.50; Westinghouse Electric, $96.12½ off $2.87½; Du Pont $127, off $3; Texas Corporation $40, off $2; and U. S. Rubber $40.25 off $2.37½.

Central European bonds, notably German issues were weak on the bond market. Gold in London advanced again. Foreign exchange rates were steady in dollar terms.

The stock market selling was heaviest around 10:25 a. m. when the tickers were two minutes behind. There was nothing definite in the news to affect prices, although foreigners were reported sellers on fears of Czech difficulties despite British efforts to prevent conflict.

be energized as fast as all construction work is completed.

"If the information about the proposed addition is satisfactory, R. E. A. expects to be able to allot money to meet the entire construction cost," the government announcement states.

Cooperation Necessary

"Speed in further development of this project depends in a large measure on a continuance of the community cooperation which is principally responsible for the success of the project so far.

"It will be necessary for the project sponsors to obtain and submit signed applications for membership in the cooperative as well as applications for electrical service from it; also obtain signed easements for the right-of-way for the power lines and prepare and send to R. E. A. a detailed map of the proposed extension.

"The same retail rate which has already been established for the first section of the project will probably apply on this new section. Under this rate, residential customers pay a minimum bill of $2.50 a month, for which they may receive 35 kw-hr, enough electricity to light the average size home adequately and operate several appliances such as a washing machine, iron and radio and $5.00 pays for 100 kw-hr, enough for all these uses and operating a water pump and one major appliance such as a refrigerator."

with Hitler at Berchtesgaden Thursday.

They were faced with the choice of satisfying Hitler or sending Europe to war.

There seemed no alternative. Further, it was reported persistently that Hitler had set a time limit, which constituted in fact an ultimatum, to acceptance almost unconditionally of his demand for incorporation of a substantial portion of the German minority area of Czechoslovakia within his Nazi Reich.

A most reliable source outlined the demands which Hitler made to Prime Minister Chamberlain at their meeting at Berchtesgaden, Germany, Thursday as follows:

1—Immediate cession to Germany of Sudeten districts in which 80 percent or more of the people are German.

2—Sudeten areas in which less than 80 percent of the people are German, but in which the German proportion is substantial, to be canted along Swiss lines with a large degree of autonomous government.

3—The remainder of the Czechoslovak state, to be guaranteed against aggression by international agreement, the guarantors to be Great Britain, Germany, France and possibly Italy.

4—Czechoslovakia's neutrality in any war to be guaranteed as the neutrality of Switzerland and Belgium are now guaranteed by treaty.

It was reported that Chamberlain was prepared to accept Hitler's terms if the cabinet would, as the only alternative to war.

The reason he made no commitments to Hitler at Berchtesgaden was that he wanted a cabinet vote.

Thus it appeared that the British cabinet, in the first instance, was called on today to choose—capitulation or war.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beavers and son Robert, attended the Carnival on Tuesday evening and visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Anderson and Mrs. Emma Sharpe.

Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Coffman and son William, Mr. Ernest Schlegel, Mr. Irvin Swayer and Miss Maude Warren of Canal Winchester, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Bowers of Laurelvile, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Davis and daughter, Evelyn, enjoyed a picnic at Cantwell Cliffs, on Sunday.

Hitler's Terms Like Ultimatum

one of the best informed in Berlin, told me today:

"Even without waiting for the next meeting between Hitler and Chamberlain we might be forced to take strong action if, for instance, 100 Sudetens were killed today or tomorrow."

The question of eventual peace seemed to hinge on whether France, in order to remove danger of a war in which she might be involved, would feel herself impelled to make a supreme effort to force the Czechs to meet Hitler's demands—and even more important whether she could brook the Czechs into further concessions which would mean the virtual dismemberment of the Czech nation.

Fight Before Ceding

So far there was every indication that the Czechs would fight before they agreed to cede Sudetenland.

There seemed just a rare possibility that France if insistently pressed by Chamberlain to go to extreme limits to avoid the catastrophe of a general war, might indicate to the Czechs that they would have to yield.

The situation today looked darker than at any time since Hitler made his speech at Nuremberg Monday.

After testing the atmosphere at Berchtesgaden Thursday and here today I can not subscribe to suggestions that Hitler is pulling the most monumental bluff in diplomatic history.

I am told that just before he saw Chamberlain he told a friend: "Never in my life have I been so sure that I was right."

I am convinced that he is unshakably determined to absorb the Sudetens into the Greater Reich one way or another, sooner or later. It looks today as if it would be sooner.

Certainly the atmosphere is more ominous than at any time during the present crisis. Foreign newspaper men have suit cases packed, ready to jump to the Czechoslovak frontier. Embassy staffs remain on duty late and return early. On the roads one can see Sudetens, who have fled from Czechoslovakia, with their cars loaded with possessions. Spic and span units of the army march along the great new highway to the border. Tank trucks in convoys carry airplane gasoline. There were at least 100 army airplanes on the line at the military airbase outside Munich yesterday.

CZECHS READY TO BATTLE FOR THEIR NATION

Many people surrendered their arms to the authorities, it was asserted, after a government ban on weapons, and a number of Sudeten German leaders left for Germany.

It was said that a traveling musician was killed by a gendarme patrol near Schlathof because he refused to halt on command. He was suspected, it was added, of acting as a Sudeten courier.

Foreign Minister Krofta, discussing the possibility of a regional pact, said that it might involve non-aggression and mutual assistance clauses, among German, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Russia and perhaps the Baltic states, with France as a guarantor.

He used the same argument as did Vice Premier Bechyně—that if Germany got the Sudeten area, German Social Democrats, Communists, Jews and others would slip into the remaining part of Czechoslovakia and from yet another racial island of Germans.

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, September 17

CONFLICTING CONDITIONS are noted in this day's astral interpretations, with promise of fulfilled ambitions and attainment of much personal prestige and gratification. Nevertheless, there is menace of conflict or friction, with superiors or those in authority. A disagreeable personal matter may be at issue, but generally there is sign of success financially, particularly through the speculative channels.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of contradictory situations. There may be some definite progress, with fulfilled personal desires, but, at the same time there may be inharmony with employers, superiors or those in power. Be cautious as to petty personal conflicts. Romance calls for discretion.

A child born on this day may be capable and ambitious, with fine aspirations in a social, cultural or philanthropic line, and yet it may run counter to superiors and those in authority, to its detriment. Its romantic trends may likewise lead into difficulties.

For Sunday, September 18

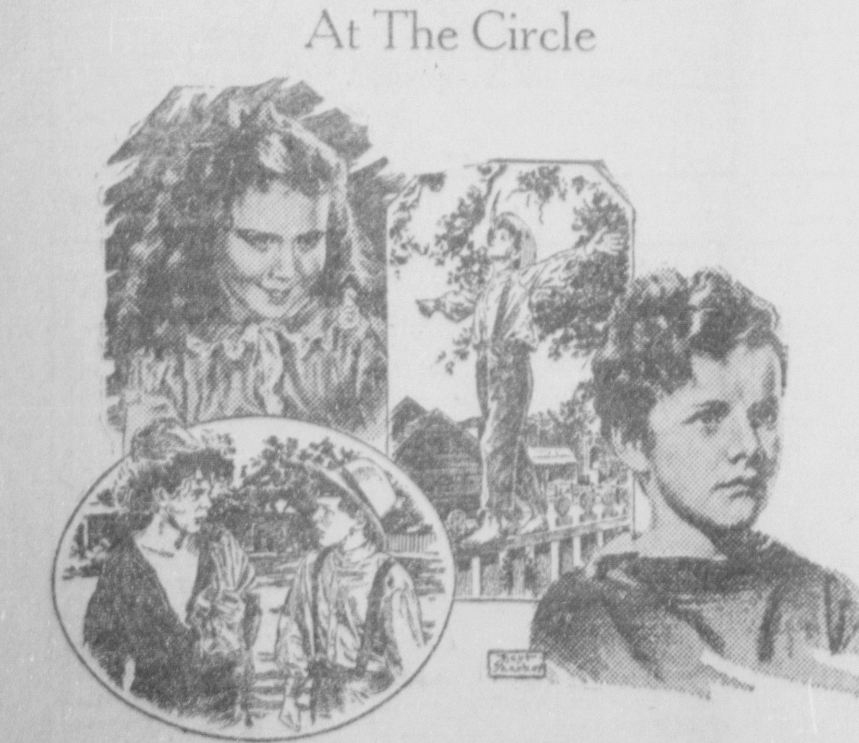

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE holds happy presage for all things of a social, romantic, intellectual or cultural character, with much excitement and enjoyment in such direction. However, there are also omens of setbacks, impediments or sorrows that will take much decision, wisdom and assistance of good friends to mitigate.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which there is much romantic, social or domestic activity, with friends and possibly courtship or marriage absorbing the interest to the neglect of more sordid matters. However, there may be some upset plans, delays, illness or regrettable circumstances in which good friends or influential persons may be depended upon to intervene.

A child born on this day may be clever, capable, romantic and of strong social leanings, with artistic and cultural tastes, at times high tide.
